

Schedule

The critical path is in bold and red.

In order to prevent delay of our deliverables and to ensure that everyone has some tasks to work on all the time, we hold frequent meetings to find out what the impediments are for people's tasks and try to deal with these impediments as soon as possible. We also have assigned everyone at least some tasks that do not depend on the completion of some other task, so that team members can work on those tasks when the completion of the dependencies of their tasks is still in progress.